

Roger Burdette

to ericnumis@aol.com

Wed, Mar 26 2:09 PM

[2014]

Re: replies to questions

Eric,

Thanks for the additional information. It will be helpful as I work on the USAOG and Western bars material.

I wrote to Ted Buttrey several weeks ago but he has not replied. Since my email did not bounce, I presume it was received.

Roger Burdette

-----Original Message-----

From: ericnumis <ericnumis@aol.com>

To: Roger Burdette <accurateye@aol.com>

Sent: Wed, Mar 26, 2014 12:32 pm

Roger:

In your email to me dated March 9, 2014 you asked me certain questions which I will try answering below if they have not been answered before.

My first contact with Ted Buttrey was when he was with Yale University, Classic Department, but we worked together extensively on imitation British halfpence matters before he became head of the coin department of the University at Cambridge, England. Exactly what the name of the Museum was and whose collection he was in charge of you probably know. For about ten years none of my contacts or myself have heard from him even though we have written him often so I have to assume that he is unable to write us.

I have never met or corresponded with EGV Newman and know of him only indirectly.

About 50 years ago when Peter Gaspar became chemistry professor for Washington University in St. Louis I heard he was a numismatist and telephoned him. We have been close numismatic friends and constant personal friends ever since.

Eric